UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. delegates today studied the possibility of the Security Council agreeing on U.S. proposals for the United Nations to sponsor military patrols along the troubled border between Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

Cambodia's representative at the U.N., Ambassador Voensai Sonn, told a reporter the suggestions for a U.N. watch on the frontier were "the really important part" of the policy speech that U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made to the 11-nation council Thursday. He asked his government for comment.

Moroccan Ambassador Ahmed Taibi Benhima was in touch with other council delegates trying to find the basis for a resolution on the dispute.

The council meets again Monday. Cambodia has charged that South Vietnamese troops, accompanied by U.S. officers, have been crossing into Cambodia and killing villagers. Sonn denied to the council Thursday that Communists fighting against the South Vietnamese government were using Cambodia as a sanctuary.

Stevenson insisted they were and said "this is the real reason for troubles on the Cambodian border." He admitted that an American adviser was with the South Vietnamese on one of the three border crossing Cambodia cited to the council. Pham Khac Rau of South Viet Nam said his country's troops had made an "occasional inadvertent crossing in pursuit of their enemies."

Stevenson made three alternative suggestions:

1. That the council ask Cambodia and South Viet Nam to establish a joint military force to patrol the frontier and report to U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant;
2. That the force be given U.N. observers or a U.N. Command;
3. That it be "an all - U.N. force."

He said the United States would contribute part of the cost of a U.N. force.

Ailing Truman Calls Off Trip

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman didn't show up at his office Thursday and later his wife announced he had canceled a trip to Lexington, Va.

"He has a stomach upset and doesn't feel like making the trip," said Mrs. Truman.

U.S. Takes Steps To Curb Reds In Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The start of U.S. jet reconnaissance flights over Red - threatened Laos may be only the first of several actions enlarging American military operations in Southeast Asia, officials said today.

Faced with Communist advances posing increasingly serious threats to Laos and neighboring South Viet Nam, U.S. policymakers have been considering a wide variety of moves, including:

- Strikes against North Viet Nam, dispatch of more air and sea power into the area, landing of forces in Thailand if the Thai government agrees such help is necessary, and direct military intervention in Laos itself.

Attack Carriers Ready

Further steps will be ordered, officials said, if the situation continues to deteriorate.

In another development, not necessarily connected with the Laotian crisis, a Navy carrier squadron has left the Indian Ocean and rejoined the main body of the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Pacific, it was learned today. It brings to three the force of big attack carriers in Far Eastern waters.

Officials said they were not certain how quickly the confrontation in Southeast Asia would reach a showdown stage if diplomacy fails to find a way out of the present crisis.

Events could develop quickly, however, depending on what the Communists decide to do.

President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were described as still hopeful that diplomatic pressures on the Communist powers and the prospect of greater U.S. military involvement in the area would cause the Communists to stop their offensive campaign against the forces of the neutralist Laotian government.

Spy Flights Requested

The reconnaissance flights were announced by the State Department Thursday after Peking Radio broadcast a report that Communist Pathet Lao troops had fired on two U.S. jet planes flying over the Plain de Jarres.

The State Department said the United States had undertaken the reconnaissance flight in response to a request from the Lao government.

A spokesman declared that the information gained from the flights would be turned over both to the Laotian government and to the International Control Commission, formed by India, Canada and Poland. The commission has the task of supervising the international agreement under which Laos was neutralized in 1962.

While he set no specific limit on time assembly line workers must be given away from their posts, Fraser said "it must be more than 39 minutes."

Workers at American Motors Corp. now get 39 minutes, two 12-minute periods when a "relief" spells them at their job, plus a 10-minute coffee break when the line is shut down and a five-minute wash-up time. GM, Ford and Chrysler workers get only the two 12-minute "reliefs."

Better Working Conditions New Goal For UAW

DETROIT (AP) — Leaders of the United Auto Workers Union appeared embarked today on a give-no-quarter fight to win improved working conditions in new contract negotiations beginning in mid-summer.

These improvements, said Director Douglas Fraser of the UAW's Chrysler department, must expand the time workers get in relief from the "tedious and repetitive monotony" of the assembly line.

Fraser's views were echoed Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president and director of the Ford department.

Strategy Mapped

Fraser's UAW Chrysler Council finished mapping negotiations strategy and specific goals Thursday. The GM and Ford Councils extended their meetings into a third day today.

Delegates interviewed by newsmen agreed their leaders advocated sentiments of rank and file members in placing working condition improvements ahead of economic gains.

Unless the union gets more than the two 12-minute breaks which assembly line workers now get per eight-hour shift, "I don't think we'll get a settlement," Fraser said.

Bannon said "a speedup, primarily speaking," is what prompted the UAW to put working improvements ahead of money.

"It (the alleged speedup) has been growing obnoxious as the result of all the optional equipment additions over the last 15 years," Bannon added. "And more options are coming up in 1965 models."

Woodcock told his GM Council "General Motors can't offer enough economically to wash working conditions out" of contracts which will replace three-year ones running out with the Big Three on Aug. 31.

Relief Time Boosted

UAW president Walter P. Reuther, however, has left no doubt the union will insist on not only continuing but increasing the so-called annual improvement factor in current contracts.

This guarantees production workers a yearly increase of six cents hourly or 2 1/2 per cent, whichever is greater. It is designed to give workers a share in cost-saving technological advances — collectively termed "automation." The current average hourly wage in the auto industry is $3.

While he set no specific limit on time assembly line workers must be given away from their posts, Fraser said "it must be more than 39 minutes."

Johnson Aiming For Grand-Slam Election Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson, today six months in the presidency, is reported to be training his sights on a grand-slam victory at the polls in November — 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Johnson, who stepped out of the background Nov. 22 to grasp the torch of government from the fallen John F. Kennedy, often talks—Texas style—about "standing tall."

Friends say he hopes to stand taller on the political horizon in another six months than any other president in U.S. history.

And like the army of other politicians, small and mighty, Johnson intends to stand on his record.

Test Polls Watched

He has, in this half-year from autumn to spring, labored like a mule to try to whip the New Frontier legislative program through Congress — but emblazoned with the fresh LBJ brand.

A dedicated poll watcher, Johnson is very much aware that a recent Gallup poll credits him with greater popularity than President Franklin D. Roosevelt enjoyed in May 1936.

That was the year FDR carried every state except Maine and Vermont, rolling up a landslide record that still stands.

Johnson calls Roosevelt his "second daddy," but being a man who likes to stand tall he intends to do his "dead level best"—a pet Johnson phrase—to beat that record.

If this sounds audacious, the President is not one to sell himself short. Woven into the record of his first six months in office is a never-say-die spirit.

Expert At Compromise

As leader of Senate Democrats in the 1950s, Johnson's strong point was an ability to compromise the views of opposing factions and fashion coalitions capable of enacting major legislation. In fact, his emphasis on compromise was so marked that, at times, disgruntled Democrats labeled him "lying down Lyndon."

As President, Johnson has been a different kind of leader. Time and again, he has refused to take no for an answer.

When Congress has defeated or pigeonholed important administration bills, he has insisted on another vote. This has been true of measures to raise the pay of federal executives, to finance the International Development Association, to extend the food stamp plan, to provide price supports for wheat growers. ## Hanna Carriers To Be Picketed At Lake Ports

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A vice president of the Marine Beneficial Engineers Association says all eight ships of Hanna Mining Co. will be picketed in all Great Lakes ports until settlement is reached on a new contract.

Operations were shut down at the American Ship Building yard here when nearly 500 of its employees refused to cross an MBEA picket line Thursday.

Melvin Pelfrey, association vice president, said the picketing was against the Ernest T. Weir, a Hanna vessel undergoing repairs at the shipyard. He said his union and Hanna have been negotiating on the contract since July, 1962.

Negro Elected As Moderator

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Edler G. Hawkins nervously fingered the two silver crosses, fused and hung from a long chain around his neck.

"Yes, I'll march on the line again," he said, "if the occasion demands it. One belonging to a minority has a kind of special understanding of what happens."

His eyes glistened and he measured his words. Of the 3.3 million members of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., he is one of the 5 per cent who are Negroes; and the church's General Assembly had just elected him its moderator.

For the first time, a Negro would be "chairman of the board" for a year and speak in union with Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the assembly's Stated Clerk and chief executive officer.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins is 55, and in 26 years under his ministry St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in New York's Bronx has grown from nine members to more than a thousand.

His election will be more eloquent than any sermon," said J. Vernon Lloyd, an attorney from Danville, Calif., who put Hawkins in nomination and later was appointed vice moderator.

Sen. Garry Brown, R-Schoolcraft, said that only a Sept. 1 primary would be legal.

Several Senate Republicans admitted this was a gimmick and part of the pressure aimed at gaining Democratic votes for immediate effect of a bill that simply would move the primary from Aug. 4 to Sept. 1.

Immediate effect requires 23 votes in the 34-member Senate. Republicans so far have been able to count on only 22. They had 21 on the last floor vote, and since picked up Sen. Clyde Geerlings, R-Holland, who didn't vote the first time around.

Brown's amendment was passed 22-11 along strict party lines.

Lacking immediate effect, the amended bill—if it passed the House and was signed by the governor — would not become law until 90 days after the end of the legislative session. This would be later than the Aug. 4 primary.

Brown said he was relying on an informal opinion of Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley as a precedent to uphold the bill because it would be the legislative intent to hold a September primary.

The informal opinion said in part: "The terms of a statute may be given retrospective effect if the legislative intent that the same be done is clearly and imperatively expressed."

The measure previously had been thought dead but was revived when it was tacked on to a measure to require a special license for bear hunters.

The anti - bounty forces surrendered when the Senate receded, by a 20-8 vote, from insistence the House accept a Senate amendment banning the bounties.

"The bear bill is a good one, and I don't want to see it die too," said Sen. Frederic Hilbert, R - Wayland, chairman of the Senate Conservation Committee, in advocating the back-down.

The bear bill, which now goes to the governor for signing, provides for a special $5 license for bear hunters. Hunters presently pay $3 for a small game license and can obtain a bear stamp for an added $2.

Reforms Planned

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reliable Vatican sources said today Pope Paul VI will soon create a commission to reform and modernize the curia, central administration of the Roman Catholic Church.

Tasks Outlined For Future To Rebuild Nation

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—President Johnson told 4,900 graduating students today that during their lives they "have the opportunity to move not only toward the rich society and the powerful society, but upward to the great society."

It will require, he said, the rebuilding of cities and countryside.

Johnson, in a philosophical speech delivered at commencement exercises at the University of Michigan, declared that the challenge of the next half century is whether the nation has the wisdom to use its wealth "to enrich and elevate our national life—and to advance the quality of American civilization."

End To Poverty

"The great society," he said, "rests on abundance and liberty for all. It demands an end to poverty and racial injustice but that is just the beginning."

Johnson pictured the great society as an affluent, cultured oasis, "where man can renew contact with nature" and where people "are more concerned with the quality of their goals than the quantity of their goods."

This would be a place, he said, of completely rebuilt cities, unspoiled countryside and bustling classrooms.

"In the next 40 years," he said, "we must rebuild the entire urban United States."

Johnson quoted the philosopher Aristotle that "men come together in cities in order to live, but they remain together in order to live the good life."

The President added: "It is harder and harder to live the good life in American cities."

Must Be Cooperation

Johnson planned to spend 2 1/2 hours in Michigan, flying first from Washington to Detroit by jet, then changing to a helicopter for the hop to Ann Arbor to receive an honorary degree.

The President was due back in Washington in plenty of time for tonight's annual dinner of the White House Correspondents Association.

Johnson, in his Ann Arbor address, announced he will create working groups to prepare a series of conferences "on the cities, on natural beauty, on the quality of education, and on other emerging challenges."

The President added that solution of such problems would not rest "on a massive program in Washington" nor solely on the resources of local authority. He said there must be cooperation through "a creative federalism, between the national capital and the leaders of local communities."

"A second place where we begin to build the great society is in our countryside," he said. "We have always prided ourselves on being not only America the strong, but America the beautiful. Today that beauty is in danger."

More Classrooms

Johnson said still another central issue of the great society is the creation of classrooms where "every young mind is set free to scan the farthest reaches of thought and imagination."

He said 8 million adult Americans — "more than the entire population of Michigan — have not finished five years of school. Nearly twenty million have not finished eight years of school. Nearly 54 million—more than one quarter of America—have not finished high school."

Johnson pointed to 100,000 annual high school graduates "with proved ability" who fail to enter college because they cannot afford it. "We must give every child a place to sit and a teacher to learn from. Poverty must not be a bar to learning, and learning must offer an escape from poverty," he said.

The President said more classrooms and more teachers are not enough. We must seek an educational system which grows in excellence as it grows in size."

Weird Sky Noise Heard In Lansing

LANSING (AP) — "It sounds kooky," said U.S. Army Capt. Donald Knutson, "but that is what happened."

Knutson was describing a mysterious, piercing noise that awakened him early Thursday. The noise also set nerves on edge in other south Lansing homes.

"At first I thought it was my furnace acting up again," Knutson said. "Then I realized it sounded like a helicopter but... more compressed and... like a smoother running engine. I thought it was trucks on Cedar St., then I realized it lasted too long for them."

Police received at least six calls—starting at 3 a.m.—from residents who heard "a high-pitched, whirling sound," a "shrill, steady noise," and "like the theme music and noises on 'Twilight Zone' (a science fiction television program)."

One man said the noise sounded as if whatever made the racket landed. A woman re-

Boy, 14, Drowns In Muck Pond

BROOKLYN (AP) — Pulled down by two feet of muck, 14-year-old Charles R. Lewis, of Brooklyn, drowned Thursday in the Brooklyn Mill Pond near a Ford Motor Co. plant.

Charles' companion, Donald Ferry, also 14, said they wanted to retrieve a sinking boat. The boys tried to stand in the water after swimming about 20 feet from shore.

Charles became mired and Donald was unable to extricate him from the muck. Skin divers found the victim's body in eight feet of water and a two-foot layer of muck.

ported seeing a "light-colored, shiny, silver-metal thing" in the sky.

After she calmed down her 10-year-old daughter Wanda, Mrs. Edward Cole looked out the window and saw the object in the sky.

"It looked like a great, huge bowl, sort of spinning," she said. "It was just over the tops of the trees and it kept moving away—not straight away like you'd think, but turning in loops as it disappeared."

Elmer Soper was returning home from the night shift in an auto factory when he heard the noise.

"I know it sounds crazy," he said. "I'd swear the thing landed over south of my place somewhere. The revolutions sort of slacked off, like a motor that has been tuned off. And then it revved up again for just a second and then quit."

Lansing police said they found nothing else to explain the noise.

Michigan Week Event

Heritage Day Recalls U.P.'s First Pioneers

Michigan Week's Heritage Day is today.

In all ages statesmen and educators have recognized the importance of a knowledge of history.

"To be ignorant of what happened before you were born is to remain forever a child," said Cicero 2000 years ago.

The Michigan we know today is the gift of the Ice Age. The glaciers pulverized the rocks over which they moved, mixing the granites of Canada with southerly limestones and shales and then depositing the new-made soil far and wide to fashion the landscape and support the life of today.

In their wake came the mighty mastodon and eventually prehistoric man, whose earthen mounds and copper tools may still be seen in Michigan today.

Indian Names

Indians mined copper in Northern Michigan and their pits may still be visited on Isle Royale. They traveled long distances to the Upper Peninsula diggings and traded far down the Mississippi the copper they mined about Lake Superior.

Legends of Michigan copper reached the French early in the Age of Discovery.

For unrecorded centuries before the white man came, Michigan was the home of the red Indian.

His trails are our highways today; his village sites are covered by our cities; his names are upon our cities, especially here in the Upper Peninsula, where Escanaba, Menominee, Manistique, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Quinnesec, Munising, and many other place names are of Indian origin.

The name Michigan is an Indian name. The Indian's story is inseparable from the story of Michigan.

Before the white men arrived, the Indians usually lived where food was most abundant and Indian settlements were found at the mouths of rivers where fish were plentiful. Sawmill towns were in the same places later, because logs could be driven down the streams to the mills.

The greatest Indian tribe of the Upper Peninsula was the Chippewa, which the British of Canada called the Ojibwa. This was the most numerous tribe of the Old Northwest.

"Three Fires"

The "Three Fires" of Michigan's Indian era were the Chippewa, the Ottawa and the Potawatomi, reading from North to South.

Although Columbus landed in the New World in 1492, 142 years passed before Lake Michigan was discovered by white men.

And another generation passed before the exploration of the Great Lakes began. The delay was caused in big part by the French government's involvement in religious and dynastic wars in Europe and also by tribal warfare in America, where the warlike Iroquois in the east kept French explorers from entering the Midwest by the Lower Great Lakes. They had to go around the Iroquois to the north by the way of the St. Lawrence and the French and Ottawa rivers.

In 1612 Samuel Champlain, the founder and governor of Canada, sent Etienne Brule to live among the Huron Indians at Lake Simcoe. While on his way to Huronia he discovered Lake Huron at the French River mouth.

Brule reached Sault Ste. Marie about 1623 and was the first white man to see Lake Superior. He reported his findings to Champlain and Champlain's 1632 map shows Lake Superior, but Lakes Michigan and Erie are absent.

All Lakes Found

It was 164 years after Columbus discovered America before all the Great Lakes appeared on a New World map for the first time. Jean Nicolet, an agent of Champlain, was sent to the Green Bay Indians and found Lake Michigan in 1634.

People who visit unknown lands are usually drawn by the hope of profit, material or spiritual. While English colonies were being planted along the Atlantic shore of America, French missionaries and traders were threading the forests of Michigan and Wisconsin. They were interested in Indians for different reasons, the traders in hope of fur profits, and the missionaries in search of souls for Christ.

When Quebec became French again the Jesuit Fathers replaced the Recollets in Huronia, which we know today as Lower Ontario. Their chief mission in 1640 was St. Marie and for it our Sault Ste. Marie was named.

Fur trading in the Lakes area started in 1654.

Father Rene Menard, enroute to Hurons fleeing the Iroquois, wintered at L'Anse in 1661 and perished that year in Wisconsin. Father Claude Allouez succeeded him and founded the Mission of LaPointe, which is on the site of Ashland, Wis. of today.

Mississippi Found

Father Jacques Marquette went to LaPointe in 1669 as Father Allouez moved to Green Bay. The era of missions had arrived.

Father Marquette and Louis Jolliet left St. Ignace on May 17, 1673 to find the Mississippi and entered the river at Prairie du Chien June 17.

Jolliet was the first man to map the entire Lake Michigan shore and was the first at the future sites of Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit. The ailing Marquette wintered in Chicago and then, with death approaching, attempted to return to his St. Ignace Mission, but death overtook him near Ludington. Two years later Indians removed his remains to St. Ignace.

Visions of an empire in mid-America filled Robert de LaSalle's mind. He conceived the project of a great colony in what's now Illinois, with access to the outside world by way of the Mississippi, then still undiscovered. Descending the Mississippi in 1682 he claimed the entire valley for France and gave to the domain its name of Louisiana.

LaSalle hoped to finance his project by fur trading on the Great Lakes and to transport his furs he built the 45-ton vessel Griffin above Niagara Falls. She was the first sailing vessel on the Great Lakes. She sailed through Lake Erie and Lake Huron and was saluted at St. Ignace on Aug. 27, 1679 on her way to Green Bay. From Green Bay it left for Niagara on Sept. 18 and was never seen again.

Now a great commerce moves in the waterways which these pioneers opened centuries ago and Heritage Day recalls our debt to them.

Plan Workshop For Retailers

MARQUETTE—A workshop for Upper Peninsula retailers in "Store Modernization" will be held at Northern Michigan University, Wednesday, June 10.

The purpose of the day-long workshop, which will extend from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. in the NMU University Center, will be to show U. P. merchants and retailers how they can increase business, protect property values, attract shoppers and new industry through store modernization.

Co-sponsors of the clinic, which will include panel discussions on store fronts, lighting and equipment, are Operation Action-U. P., Group 1 of the Michigan Bankers Association, and Northern's Public Services Division.

Bill Wilson, manager of Operation Action, said that "Store modernization in the U. P. is needed to increase tourism and industrial expansion," and cited the 1953 and 1963 EBASCO Reports and the Upper Midwest Research Council Study from the University of Minnesota.

Following a noon luncheon, which will be highlighted by an address by Frank Suggitt, planning consultant, Williams and Works of Mason, Mich., on "Modernization—Its Implications for Tourism," a panel will discuss the "Possibilities, Problems, and Profits" of modernization.

Participating in the one-hour discussion will be three U. P. retailers who have remodeled their businesses in the past several years.

The third panel, which will cover the financing of modernization, will include U. P. bankers.

The workshop is open to the public and all persons planning to attend are asked to register with officers of their local bank by June 8.

Serving as attendance chairman for this area are:

Delta County—William J. Noreus, cashier, First National Bank, Gladstone; Luce County—James Mills, cashier, Newberry State Bank, Newberry; Mackinac County—John R. Goudreau, cashier, First National Bank, St. Ignace; Menominee County—J. E. Gribble, executive vice president and cashier, First National Bank, Hermansville; Schoolcraft County—Clyde L. Strasser, cashier, State Savings Bank, Manistique.

Sixth Graders Have Tour Of Upper Peninsula

STEPHENSON—Ninety-nine sixth graders of the Stephenson Consolidated Schools completed a two day tour of Upper Michigan recently. The trip was sponsored by the sixth grade teachers and approved by the school as an educational experience. It was financed by the pupils through fund raising activities.

The trip took two days and covered approximately 550 miles.

Points of interest on the tour included Palms Book State Park, Thompson Fish Hatchery, boat trip and visit to Mackinac Island, the Soo Locks, and Kinchelo Air Base. An added feature this year included a trip over the International Bridge and stop in Sault Ste. Marie, Canada. Hi-lights of the tour were visiting the Zoo Shoppers Plaza, and television station in Sault Ste. Marie.

The pupils were chaperoned and accompanied by Mrs. Wilbert Winter, Herbert Whitaker, Mrs. Amandus Gidlof, Vincent Kurten and Mrs. Marion Haglund. The buses were driven by Wright Hallfrisch and Melvin Desjarlais.

Council Raises Tax To Finance City Projects

The Escanaba City Council last night adopted a 1964-65 budget that provides for a city tax increase to aid in financing the largest one-year capital improvement program ever undertaken in Escanaba, other than utility expansions.

The Council adopted the general fund budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 calling for expenditures of $1,316,123 — an increase of $314,680 over the current year's budget. There were no objections voiced at the hearing.

Of the increase, $47,552 covers additional operating costs, including a 10 cent an hour wage increase for city employees.

The balance represents the additional city cost of the capital improvement program, whose cost will total $407,244. This is made up of $264,000 for the Federal Aid sanitary sewer transmission lines, $116,000 in street improvements, $12,000 in water mains, and $15,000 in sewer main laterals.

The Big Sewer Project will provide $132,000; and $67,319 will be assessed against property, and the remaining general fund balance of $207,925 will be financed by the use of $100,000 in reserve funds and $107,925 in tax revenue.

Because of the financing of this capital improvements program the city tax rate will be increased by $2 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, increasing the levy to $14.50 from the $12.50 in effect since 1960.

The major sewer main project approved as an Accelerated Public Works project will extend from 18th Ave. S. (on the west side of 23rd St.) north to the alley north of Ludington St. The project low bidder is Frank J. Siller of Ann Arbor at a cost of $206,723 and the project is scheduled to start within a few days. Local labor will be hired so far as possible.

Mayor George Rusch was questioned by Harold "Pat" Gasman at the Council meeting last evening regarding how long the $2 city tax raise will continue in effect — will it be just for this year?

Six Year Program
Mayor Rusch replied that the city has a six-year capital improvement program planned at a total cost of $6,390,000 and that the first projects undertaken this year were those considered most pressing, such as the sanitary sewer extension. He said the increase will be on for several years.

Councilman Jacob Bink and City Manager George Harvey noted that the levy will be only for the amount needed to meet city budget and that it could vary below the rate now being adopted.

The $2 city tax increase will result in an additional $58,000 in local tax revenue to the city and this will go toward financing projects that will total $407,000. Mayor Rusch said this is a good "investment" of local funds for community benefit.

The Council last night gave first reading to the appropriation and set May 28 for public hearing; and set June 1 for adoption of the utility rate ordinance which is virtually unchanged except for the addition of an electric home heating rate.

UCT Delegates Return From State Meeting

The United Commercial Travelers of America, Michigan Grand Council, held its annual convention in Saginaw May 15 and 16.

Paving Program Starts In City

The Escanaba City Council set wheels in motion last night for a busy season of street paving and other public works in the city, to be financed in part by property owners and the city.

Kenneth Touthak, public works superintendent, suggested immediate action by the Council toward purchase of asphalt for street paving, indicating the work was to be started at once.

Gustafson Oil Co. was low bidder to supply the city with annual requirements of asphalt.

Good Response

Mayor George Rusch a couple weeks ago welcomed Escanaba Area Public High School students to a special meeting of the Council on Government Day. There were about 15 there.

"Tell all of your students in government classes to come to our meetings. We would like to have them," he said.

Last night more than 50 EHS government students were on hand for the Council meeting. As Mayor Rusch noted, there was scarcely a seat unfilled in the Council Chambers, a most unusual situation.

for street paving at a cost of $1,215. There were two other bidders.

The Council approved the low bid of U. P. Concrete Pipe Co. for sanitary sewer pipe at a cost of $11,055; and bought a concrete and asphalt saw from Paynter Equipment Co. for $1,128 — all required for the efficient progress of the public works this season.

Thirteen bids for the electric transformers were referred to the electric department superintendent for recommendation.

George Does It

Governor George Romney has announced that he'll be a candidate for re-election as governor.

The announcement came as no surprise and was hurried on by the recent Republican State Convention. The convention gave Governor Romney a rousing endorsement, but it also had some undercurrents of criticism because the Governor had not announced that he'd be the party's standard bearer again. There was some feeling among delegates that they were observing political cynicism with national convention implications.

In making his announcement, Governor Romney said he hadn't intended to announce his candidacy until the Legislature had finished its regular session but that the State GOP Convention endorsement and request for an early announcement obligated him to respond earlier.

It's a minor political sycophant in any event and the Michigan Governor race is now firmly up. Romney will be opposed for the Republican nomination by George N. Higgins, a former senator who will be a rallying point for conservatives and Romney's Democratic opponent in the November election—which will be strongly influenced by the presidential contest — will be Neil Staebler.

Staebler is currently Michigan's congressman-at-large and he bears a great reputation in the state as the political swamp fox who masterminded much of Soapy Williams success during Williams' record 6 term tenure in the governor's office. Staebler won the uncontested role he has for the gubernatorial shot by exercise of his famed political savvy and strong position with old guard county organizations of the party, but he has emerged as a rather battered choice of the Democrats for their standard bearer. At least some labor elements of the party didn't dig him and tried to spark up an opponent and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh seemed tempted for a time.

Staebler has been Michigan's Democratic national committeeman and he is relinquishing this post to John Swainson, who succeeded Williams as governor for one term and then lost to George Romney. Thus Swainson, the defeated governor, becomes the federal Democratic patronage dispenser in Michigan with a direct line to the White House.

Just a little over a year ago Swainson teamed with Michigan AFL-CIO President Gus Scholle and Swainson's former secretary, Zolton Ferency, to take the State Democratic Committee chairmanship from Staebler's man and give it to Ferency, making him at least in title the top banana in the organization which Staebler and Soapy Williams built up over so many years. Democratic state officials and congressmen and both U.S. senators joined Staebler in opposing Ferency. And now he and Swainson have keys to the bank.

There'll be lots of friendship cakes cut by the Democrats in public as the campaign steps up, but they have their family troubles just like the Republicans.

Teens Are Loaded

It may not be surprising to anyone, especially parents, to learn that teen-agers' pocket money has increased almost 300 per cent since 1945. But the exact figure it amounts to should lift anybody's eyebrows.

According to the National Education Association, the nation's 22½ million teen-agers—12 per cent of the population—spent $11 billion in 1963.

By 1970, the annual spending of teenagers will reach nearly $21 billion.

Currently, the national average of this group is $489 a year, or about $9.40 a week. More than half of them (usually boys) earn their own money; the rest receive it as an allowance, regular or irregular.

Despite the great amounts of money American teen-agers control, says the Education Association, "little tangible effort has been made to guide them toward mature practices in handling money."

Most of their spending goes for food, recreation, clothes, cosmetics and grooming aids.

Contributing but little to this "average of affluence," however, are many youths who live in poverty. They are the potential dropouts who contemplate quitting school to help support their families or themselves.

"They cannot comprehend," says the Education Association, "the world of abundance so many of the middle and upper-class youngsters take for granted."

The Doctor Says:

Liquor Lessens Judgment

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt.

Q—How much whisky must I consume to have alcohol show in a blood test? How much would justify a drunk driving charge?

A—Since the alcohol you drink is eliminated fairly rapidly, the amount in the blood depends in part on the amount of time that has elapsed since your last drink. If the only whisky you consumed was ¼ of an ounce an hour or less of the blood test, your blood alcohol level would be 1/100th of 1 per cent. There would be no appreciable effect on your behavior or your driving ability.

With one ounce, the level would be 2/100th of 1 per cent, and the alcohol would begin to affect your judgment. With two or three ounces, the level would be 1/20th of 1 per cent, and you might be inclined to address some injudicious cracks to the police officer. Officially, however, you would still be considered sober but very close to the borderline of drunkenness. With five or six ounces the level would be 1/10th of 1 per cent, and you would be too sloshed to drive a car until you had sobered up.

Q—I have taken Bonadon for dizziness for about three months with good results. I would like to know what side effects might occur. Is this drug habit-forming? Will it lose its effectiveness if I continue to take it?

A—Bonadon is a combination of medicine, an antihistamine, and a sedative. It is used to reduce nervous tension. In the usually prescribed dosage it can be safely used for prolonged periods. In some persons it causes drowsiness and dryness of the mouth.

Q—I have heard that taking one teaspoonful of vinegar after the noon and evening meal will cause you to lose weight. Is this true and is it harmful?

A—In order to reduce you must take in fewer calories than you use up. Since vinegar furnishes no calories it will put no weight on you. If it reduces your appetite it might help you to lose weight and in the amount suggested it would not be harmful.

"I Could Use Some Advice, Champ!"

Washington Comment

SAN FRANCISCO—(NEA)—Here in California, most particularly in the fast-growing southern counties, the professional politician is learning what marksmen long have known—it's hard to hit a moving target.

In this instance the shifting target is the mobile voter. One survey has shown that in the San Diego area, where the changing fortunes of aircraft and space industries seriously affect jobholding, some 80 per cent of the voting population has changed residence in a given five-year period.

For some California areas, a year-old registration list may be badly dated. As many as one-fourth of the voters may not be living at the listed addresses.

The massive metropolitan Los Angeles population cluster is, of course, a continuous mixing bowl of in-migrants, out-migrants and address-changers.

Though the California situation may be unmatched in the United States, population (voter) mobility is an increasing problem for politicians to cope with in all the sizable urban clusters today.

First off, the endless round of "moving days" temporarily robs millions of voters of their franchise, since they often cannot meet length-of-residence requirements for voting in zones new to them. Second, it makes the matter of registering voters an increasing headache. The Democrats seem generally to be better at it than the Republicans, but even they tend to come down most heavily with hastily mounted election-year crash programs.

The Democratic organization of the late William Green in Philadelphia is perhaps the most efficient registration mechanism in the country. More than any other, it appears to make a serious effort at the costly continuous recheck of voter rolls needed to keep them updated.

Some politicians mutter that the once-touted machine of Mayor Richard Daley in Chicago has gone slack in this vital department and could do with major overhaul. But so probably could most party organizations across the land.

In zones of high mobility, the professional politician may not only be in the dark as to who is living in what house. Except for some educated guesses, based on neighborhood economic and general cultural levels, he also may know nothing of his constituents' past allegiances or what issues concern these people.

Political leaders, staring at the incredible sprawl of Los Angeles, shake their heads in puzzlement at how to make a dent. They have no faith that candidates' personal appearances on the street or in the rally hall make a lasting imprint. They put the big chips on television as the only hope.

One astute campaign manager sees still a further drawback in today's human mobility. The people who move, he says, are for the most part, persons who are out to better themselves. They have energy, ability, ambition. From their ranks come some of the nation's best volunteer political workers.

Too many of these people thus are in a kind of no man's land. Their considerable political talents—and interest—are wasted, just as their valuable votes may be wasted in the process of transferring residence. Mobility, then, is costing high in the political world, whatever its benefits elsewhere. The old anchors of stability—and the political assurance that went with them—are gone in many places.

Not more than a handful of professional politicians seem today even to be thinking about how to keep in stride with a voting citizenry that flows mercurially across the face of the nation. The ball game in the 1960s is nearly brand new. It demands new rules and a brisk new approach.

The vehement opposition, as expressed by State Representative Joseph S. Mack from the Upper Peninsula and the avalanche of criticism combined with strong protest has caused me to change my mind on this matter.

Ann Landers

Second Father Needs Coaching

Dear Ann Landers: Six months ago I married a West Point graduate who has made the army his career. This is a second marriage for us both. He has two sons by his first wife who do not speak to him, and I'm afraid he is building an equally poor relationship with my son.

Leslie is 12, a fine student, good athlete and gets along well with people. He adored his father who died three years ago but he has accepted my second husband beautifully. When I asked Leslie how he felt about my remarriage he replied, "You need a husband and I will do my best to like him." I thought this was very good for a 12-year-old.

My husband insists that Leslie say "No, sir" and "Yes, sir." Every Friday he inspects the boy's chest, drawers and clothing, and gives him demerits if everything isn't perfect. He also gives demerits for poor posture. I know discipline is important but my husband is so stern with the boy I'm afraid there will be no affection — only fear. Please comment. —M.D.G.

Dear M.D.G.: Discipline is important, but it must be accompanied with justice and love. A cold, commanding father may get perfection but unless he gives warmth as well as orders his son will hate him. Apparently your husband didn't learn much from his earlier failures as a father.

Suggest that he cut out the "No, sir" and "Yes, sir" before the boy gets an ul-sir. He needs saved.

I asked him what the third degree was all about. He said his first wife clipped him for an appendectomy, $500 worth of dentistry, and $250 in back bills for the first year they were married. He doesn't want to get mixed up in anything like that again.

What do you think about a man who would ask such questions? —FLOORED

Dear Floored: I think you don't need a goof like this for a husband. Tell him to run an ad.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an active member of a very fine organization. I can name 30 women who wish to be identified as "hard-working members" when they do nothing but pay dues.

Some of these individuals don't attend more than two or three meetings a year. They refuse to serve on committees. Is this fair? What can be done to remedy the situation? —OLD FAITHFUL

Dear Old Faithful: Every organization has its dedicated members and hard-working horses. They are few in number, noble in spirit and fantastically energetic.

And then there are the other 97%. They are joiners and not doers. So accept the fact and use their dues to advance the good work of the organization.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Future Peekers See Rosy Glow

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Peekers into the future have new reason today to see everything coming up rosy. Some of the most reliable business indicators of things to come are taking on healthier glows after a period of hesitation.

Factory orders for durable goods took a big jump in April to a record high of $20.6 billion, a 7 per cent climb in one month. Although shipments also set a record, the orders poured in at such a rate that the backlog of unfilled orders advanced to $49 billion. That all but guarantees busy schedules for many factories for weeks and even months to come.

Orders Pick Up
A happy factor in the flow of orders as spring got going is that it marks a rebound from two months of retreat from the previous peak in January. The February and March trend had given the prognosticators pause. Many feared that the upsurge in the economy in the final weeks of 1963 might be leveling off, or worse.

New orders strengthen earlier reports that industrial production as a whole was climbing and employment increasing more than seasonally. The record order backlog should keep output on the upgrade for May and probably June.

At the consumer level the prospects are bright, too. Personal income has risen to a new high of $483.1 billion, at an annual rate. Business translates this into more spendable dollars to be tapped for finished goods or for services.

Cash dividend payments rose to $1.13 billion in April, 9 per cent more money than stockholders got in the like 1963 month.

Housing Slumps
Merchants have come to watch dividend payments as an index to what to expect, or hope for, since many happy recipients of increased payments spend them quickly at the stores. Retailers of luxury goods often are the greatest beneficiaries of this windfall. Others are the recreation and travel industries, and purveyors of personal services.

Housing starts are drooping a bit. Permits for future construction also slumped a little in April.

But housing experts warn that the industry is a tricky one, with month to month changes the rule and trends hard to spot. Some federal authorities have been expecting a slowdown in home construction, and especially apartment building, after the big spurt last year. Vacancies in many communities have been mounting, cooling the ardor of builders.

The consumer is still spending for other things, however. And the competition for his dollar is keen.

Detroit Symphony Gets 2 Million In Ford Gifts

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Foundation Thursday plunked a $2 million dollar gift into the coffers of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Half of the amount was a grant and the other $1 million was given on a three-to-one matching basis. The Symphony Association said one-third of the $3 million matching money was promptly pledged.

Mrs. Edsel Ford said she would give $750,000 and John B. Ford, chairman of the symphony board, pledged $250,000.

Until now, the orchestra has operated on box office receipts and annual gifts. It now is trying to raise $600,000 for its operation during its 50th anniversary season which begins in the fall.

Since only the interest from the Ford endowment can be used, its grant will yield about $200,000 a year for the symphony's operations during the next five years.

Dope Use Grows In West Africa

By KENNETH L. WHITING

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — An unhappy byproduct of modern civilization — drug addiction — has sharply increased in once-primitive West Africa.

Ghana's Ministry of Health is producing movies to warn the public against narcotics dangers. Production of drugs in Nigeria is growing rapidly. The police seized 4,444 pounds of illicit drugs in 1962 against 517 pounds in 1961.

A Nigerian senator startled Parliament last month by proposing that the government encourage production of Indian hemp because it was so profitable. When the laughter of his colleagues subsided, the senator explained he thought Indian hemp was used, as indeed it can be, solely for making rope.

Cannabis, a part of the hemp plant, is the main problem.

The World Health Organization opposes the mediculose of cannabis preparations. Their production and consumption is illegal in most nations.

But in various places under various names—"kif" in Morocco, "bhang" in India and Pakistan, "dagga" in South Africa, "marijuana" in North and South America—cannabis preparations are widely known narcotics which affect mind and body.

Manager Of Fair Given Salary Raise To $17,500

DETROIT (AP) — The State Fair Authority completed a double about-face Thursday by voting to give Walter A. Goodman, general manager of the State Fair, a $3,500 pay raise.

The Republican-dominated authority previously had awarded Goodman, a Democrat, the increase. But it rescinded its action last month.

However, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley ruled that the meeting at which the raise was rescinded was not valid. He said the authority failed to meet requirements for conducting special meetings.

Another attempt to kill the raise went awry Thursday and the authority hiked Goodman's salary to $17,500 annually.

May Crowning Saturday At St. Rita's Church

TRENTARY—The catechetical school at St. Rita's Church, Trenton, will close with the May Crowning Saturday at 2 p.m. in the church.

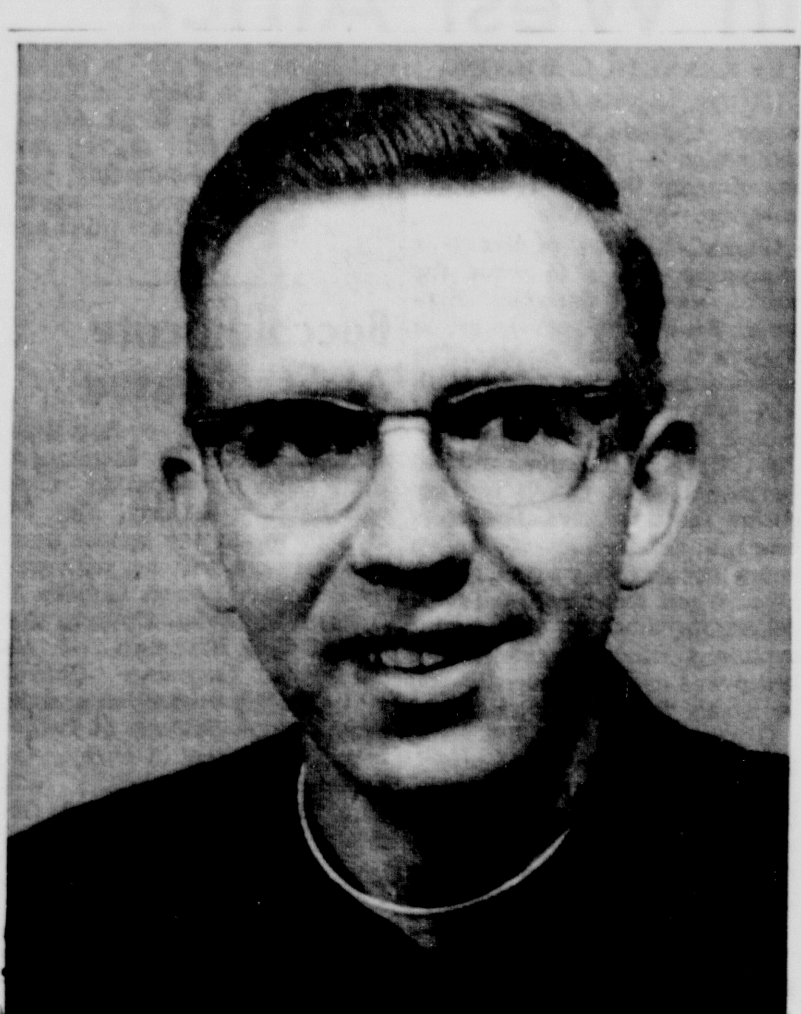

Cheryl Reimer, a senior at Rock High School, will crown the Blessed Virgin. Queen Cheryl will be escorted by Marvin Lusardi, a Trenton high school senior, as king. The crown bearer will be Mary Jo Finlan. All the school children of the parish will join in the procession and will assist the junior choir in the singing of the traditional hymns to the Blessed Mother.

The May Crowning will be followed by a tea for the Sisters. Three Our Lady of Victory Missionary Sisters have been teaching the children. They were assisted by Miss Beverly Lustick as a full time teacher. The high school children were taught by Father Hasenberger.

The children will be given their report cards and terminate the school year with a party to be given by the ladies of the parish.

Six seniors will attend the Graduates' Mass at 11 a.m. on Sunday. They will be in cap and gown. Marvin Lusardi, Mike Hawley and Robert Cayer are graduates from Trenton High School. Cheryl Reimer graduates from Rock High School; Jo Ann Niemi, Eben High School, and Jerry Seymour, Rapid River High School. They will be guests of the pastor at a special banquet.

Parents of the new priest are Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman of Clintonville. Mrs. Hoffman is the former Marie Grawey, daughter of Jos. A. Grawey of Gladstone. There are seven other children in the family. # Millions Visit Kennedy Grave

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the six months since his death, kings, queens, presidents and an estimated 2,745,000 persons have climbed up the gentle slope to John F. Kennedy's grave.

Now and then members of the Kennedy family slipped in among the tourists who stand at the low white picket fence that encloses the gravesite in Arlington National Cemetery.

Such a one was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy who was seen at his brother's grave one afternoon this week before he left on a trip to Europe.

Designs Studied
The family has not selected the final design for the monument to be erected. The President's widow still is receiving suggestions, a spokesman for her said today.

The eternal flame that marks the top of the level grave is expected to be incorporated into the permanent memorial.

For now, it burns above a temporary base covered with an artificial green grass carpet—bright in the sunshine of the spring day and soft in the blue floodlights of the night.

During the winter, fresh green boughs covered the base. Each evening guards found among the boughs a few mementos tossed there—rosaries, crosses, sometimes bracelets and even dolls, probably put there by children.

But the boughs dried out too fast in the warm spring days. The military caps and insignia that had lain there since the day of burial, last Nov. 25, had rotted in the rain and snow. They, too, were removed.

Wreaths Arrive Daily
The caps and insignia and every article of permanent nature, including the ribbons and cards on the floral tributes, are sent to the White House for keeping until the Kennedy Memorial Library is completed.

The enclosed area is covered with the blue-green grass that President Kennedy loved—the kind he had put in the White House garden by his office and at the Virginia country home he didn't have much time to enjoy.

Each day, the base of the flame is covered with flowers, and wreaths line the fence. Some 15 wreath-laying ceremonies are arranged each day.

It has become a custom for visiting foreign dignitaries to pay their respects at the grave of the assassinated president.

A dramatic moment came last month when former President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela brought his wreath of white flowers.

Mrs. Kennedy had written him a letter just before his term ended in February, saying that during his life, President Kennedy had been concerned about the security of Betancourt, who had survived five assassination attempts.

It was a moving letter. And it was a moving moment when Betancourt stretched his trembling hands over the grave. There on one hand were the scars from the burns he had received during one of the attempts on his life.

LANSING (AP)—Two promotions have been announced in the state's animal disease eradication division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which operates cooperatively with the State Agriculture Department. Dr. William Waddell, former veterinarian in charge of South Dakota programs, has been named to succeed Hendee as assistant veterinarian.

LANSING (AP)—The State Conservation Department has reminded dog owners that they may still take their pets with them when they visit state parks this summer. The Conservation Commission has delayed action on a proposal to place state parks off limits to dogs during the May 1-Sept. 30 season. Dogs will still not be permitted on bathing beaches and must be under personal control on a leash.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has awarded Hodgkiss and Douglas, Inc., of Petoskey, Mich., a contract for $87,835 for work at Michigan's Jordan River National Fish Hatchery. The firm is to perform the work—fencing, road servicing and other jobs—at the hatchery at Alba.

Square Dancers Plan Gala Party To End Season

The Merrie-Makers Square Dance Club will conclude the season at Lincoln gym Saturday evening with dancing starting at 8:00 p.m. Plans for the summer will be made during the business session, under Ernest Hoholik, president.

Alex Creighton, caller, has announced that this meeting will be arranged around members' favorite dances. Each is asked to request whatever square they like. The earlier the request, the easier it will be to plan the evening's program, he notes.

Hosts for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Jake Dunlap of Newberry and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams, of Engadine.

All interested couples are invited to attend, including beginners, those who have never danced before and experienced square dancers. The fun-level dances makes it possible for everyone to enjoy themselves, the club notes.

Elected Bishop May Turn Down Michigan Post

DETROIT (AP)—The newly elected suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan indicated Thursday he may turn down the post.

The Rev. Dr. C. Kilmer Myers, of Chicago, told newsmen he was "not at all sure I'll accept the Michigan post." He said he doesn't "readily want to give up" his present job as director of the Urban Training Center for the Christian Mission in Chicago.

"It's a great honor to be elected to such a fine position as that of suffragan bishop of Michigan, but my present work is very important," he said.

Dr. Kilmer said he would discuss the situation with Michigan Bishop Richard S. Emrich, but "I can say for sure that I won't make a decision for at least three days."

"I have to return to Chicago and talk things over with my wife and some of the clergy there."

The Urban Training Center in Chicago helps high school dropouts and organizes the jobless for employment retraining. Dr. Myers instructs both clergymen and laymen in job retraining and mission work in Chicago's inner city area.

He moved to the Chicago post nearly a year ago after spending many years in slum work in New York City. He has written several books on slum work.

Dr. Myers was elected suffragan bishop last Friday.

Depot Serves Both Rural And City Residents

Providing both rural and city residents, and tourists with fresh dairy products, ice cream and frozen foods is the work of Cloverland Creamery, 144 River St., Manistique.

The firm is a depot for the Bancroft Dairy Company, which has headquarters in Marquette.

Other depots are at Hancock, Escanaba, Munising and Newberry, with a sub-depot at Sault Ste. Marie.

The dairy serves nearly all of the Upper Peninsula. Its motto is "Upper Peninsula's Finest."

A fleet of five vehicles is kept here to deliver the products. Three routes are operated—one going west and south to Garden, Fairport and Nahma, another going to Big Spring and nearly to Shingleton, and still another going east to Gould City, to Curtis and back to the Manistique area via M77.

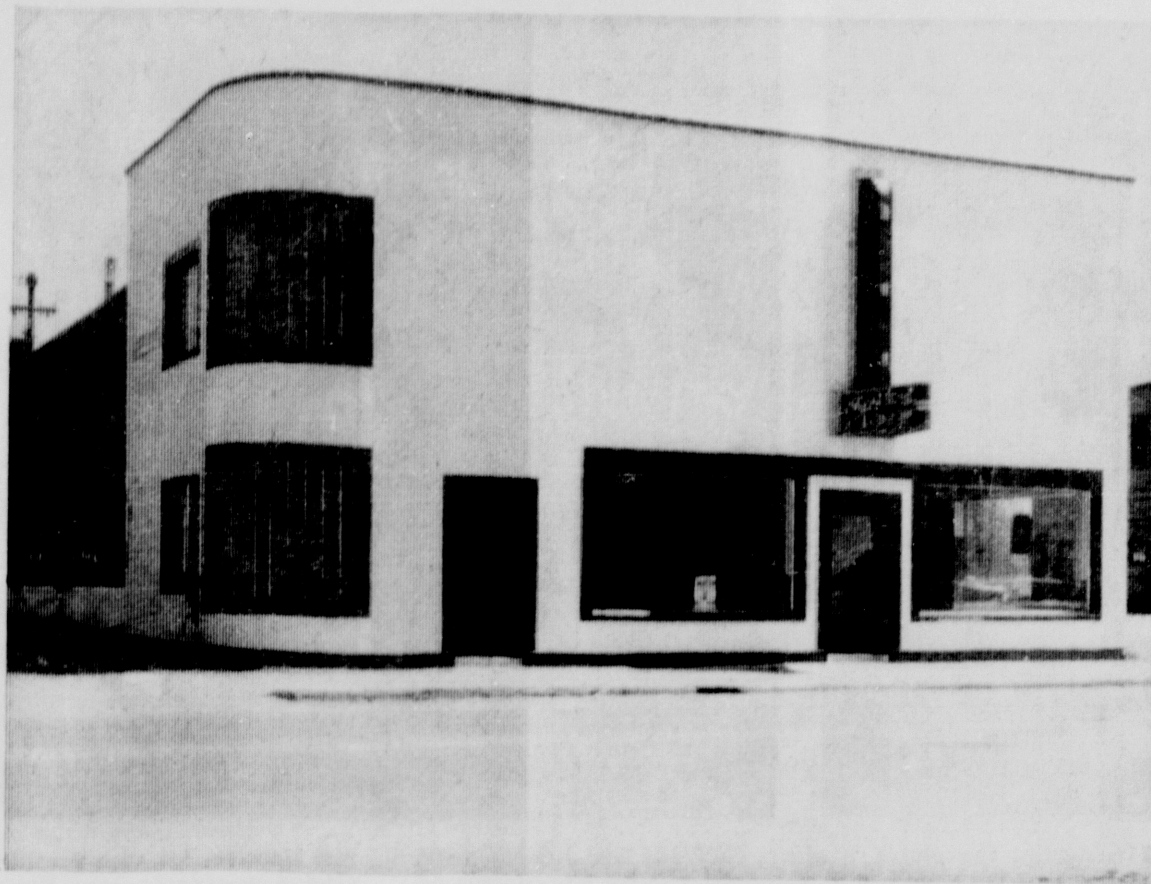

Leroy Oberg, who has been with the Creamery 22 years is office manager. He worked 11 years with Nelson brothers in operation of the dairy and since its purchase Sept. 1, 1953, with the Bancroft company.

Also with the firm are Kenneth Wilson, 10 years service, Harold Demers, 7, and Lyle Kotchen, 6. Frank Beckman worked with the dairy last summer and will be returning this year.

Both retail and wholesale service is provided. Eggs are obtained from Taylor Egg Co. at Schaffer, and frozen foods from Milwaukee Cheese Co.

Refrigerated trucks are used for deliveries. Many schools as well as stores and homes are served.

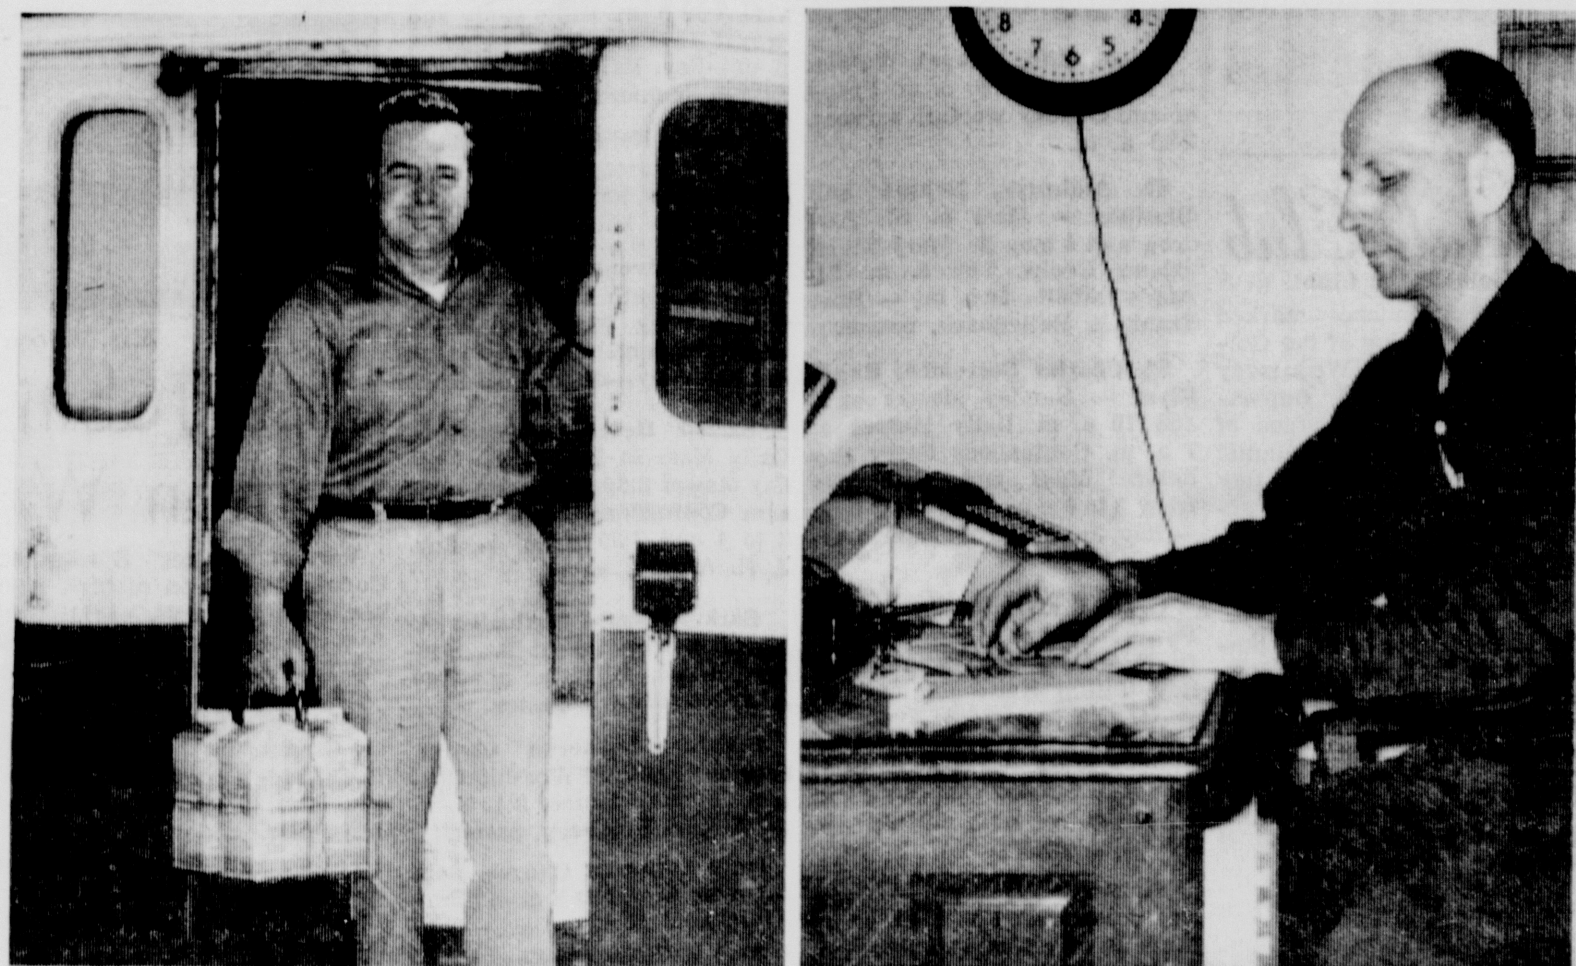

In summer, population of the area increases and this is reflected in the dairy business, which doubles and triples in volume then.

Exterior of the building at 144 River St.

Mays Slams Two Homers But Loses Batting Lead

By The Associated Press

Move over Willie. Here comes Billy.

Forget it Willie. There goes Billy.

That's how fast the National League batting lead changed hands Thursday as Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs boosted his average to .402 and took over the top spot held by San Francisco's Willie Mays since April 22.

Hitters in 10 at-bats, Mays broke out of his slump by tagging his 15th and 16th homers and powering the Giants to a 9-4 victory over Philadelphia that lifted San Francisco back into first place. Mays' 2-for-4 performance left him with a .397 average.

Williams, meanwhile, stroked two singles and a double in four at-bats during the Cubs' 10-3 loss to St. Louis, finally overcoming a Mays' lead that stood at 177 points less than a month ago.

Williams began Operation Overhaul on April 29 when he was hitting .311 and Mays was batting .488. Since then, Williams has been on a 19-game tear, swinging at a .458 clip, while Mays has hit a more-than-respectable .346 but still lost 91 points off his average.

In the other two games scheduled, pitchers stole the spotlight. Dick Farrell tied San Francisco's Juan Marichal for the most victories in the majors by winning his sixth in Houston's 3-1 triumph over Pittsburgh and Sandy Koufax struck out 11 in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 6-1 triumph over the New York Mets.

In American League action, Baltimore edged Kansas City 7-6, Boston defeated the Los Angeles Angels 8-7 and Washington walloped Detroit 8-2. The others were not scheduled.

The Phillies and Giants were tied 4-4 in the fifth when Mays triumph over Pittsburgh and Sandy Koufax struck out 11 in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 6-1 triumph over the New York Mets.

In American League action, Baltimore edged Kansas City 7-6, Boston defeated the Los Angeles Angels 8-7 and Washington walloped Detroit 8-2. The others were not scheduled.

The Phillies and Giants were tied 4-4 in the fifth when Mays and Orlando Cepeda took over. Mays, who homered with one in the first inning, topped the tie with a solo shot. Cepeda put it out of reach by connecting after a walk to Willie McCovey.

Mays and Cepeda each drove in three runs.

Richie Allen homered for the Phillies, who were stopped on one hit over the last six innings by reliever Bob Bolin.

Williams, battling to become the first Cub to win the batting title since Phil Cavarretta in 1945, led a 12-hit attack against Ray Sadecki, but the Cardinals had the power.

Tom McCarver and Bill White each tagged two-run homers and Doug Clemens smacked a bases-loaded triple. With that support, Sadecki went all the way, squaring his record at 3-3 with his third straight victory.

Farrell, bringing his record to 6-1, needed Hal Woodeshick's relief help in the ninth after Bill Virdon and Jerry Lynch opened with singles. Woodeshick got Roberto Clemente to hit into a doubleplay and struck out Gene Freese to end the threat.

The Colts got all the runs they needed in the fourth against Vern Law, now 1-4, scoring twice on singles by Nellie Fox, Walt Bond and Mike White plus an error by Lynch on the last hit.

Koufax brought his record to 4-3 and struck out 10 or more in one game for the 53rd time in his career. The record for 10-strikeout performances is 54, held jointly by Rube Waddell and Bob Feller. Koufax was touched for seven hits by the Mets.

Tommy Davis went 3-for-3 for the Dodgers while Jim Gilliam and Frank Howard each collected two hits. Koufax contributed to his own cause, singling in the fifth inning and starting a four-run rally.

Strikeouts — Maloney, Cincinnati, and Koufax, Los Angeles, 52.

CAMDEN, N. J.—(NEA)—The last vagrant drop of work-out sweat was just drying up on Joey Giardello's battered face as he stuck it into the split level place he can at last call home.

"Like this hot weather," said the middleweight boxing champion of the world. "Makes my old bones feel good."

The laugh that accompanied this made it perfectly clear that he accepted his deprecatory self-appraisal at your own risk.

Joey saw your concern and sought — in his own heavy-handed way — to ease it.

"I been fightin' 17 years," he chuckled, "but I'm not really old. I only say things like that to make old (censored) like you feel young. You oughtta be with me when I go out to see my ball team play. That Johnny Callison — he's my buddy — ribs me by telling everybody he remembers seeing me fight on television when he was 12."

Joey's baseball team is the Philadelphia Phillies. Callison, their regular rightfielder, was 12 years old in 1951 — a year in which Joey was fighting the likes of Bobby Dykes, Rocky Castellani and Tony Amato.

The record book says Giardello was born in 1930. His ringworn face says he is older.

Joey won his title from Dick Tiger in an upset decision last December. The title hasn't been worth much to him in one way but very valuable in another.

"I haven't made a penny outta the championship — outside the $20,000 I got for beating Rocky Rivero in Cleveland last April," he said, "but I gained a lot in self-respect and in the respect the other kids pay me two kids."

Joey took a split, disputed decision from Rivero and is booked for a rematch over-weight, nontitle bout against Rocky in Cleveland May 22, which may lead to an engagement for the championship — outside the $20,000 I got for beating Rocky Rivero in Cleveland last April," he said, "but I gained a lot in self-respect and in the respect the other kids pay me two kids."

ment for the championship with the unpredictable Argentine.

"After this one, I'm going to sit down with my lawyer and some friends and decide who I'm gonna give a crack at the title to and how I'm gonna make some real money from being champion," he said.

"The big thing on my mind right now is how to beat this Rivero so there won't be no doubt in nobody's mind. And that's tough."

Rivero, who taught himself to fight, has no style, no set pattern of fighting.

"With him you can't watch one thing," said Giardello. "You gotta be careful all over. He's liable to do anything."

Rivero, a plump, unfightish-looking young man, is noted as a knockout artist, but not to Giardello.

"I can't say whether he hits hard or not," Joey said. "All I know is that he hit me his best punches the last time, and he didn't hurt me."

Just before dinner Joey Giardello stepped on his bathroom scales. They registered 166 pounds.

"I gotta make 164 for this Rivero," said the champion. "It's gonna be easy. Ain't this warm weather great for us old folks?"

Kelso Makes 1964 Debut

By The Associated Press

Mighty Kelso, Horse of the Year for the past four years, makes his 1964 debut Saturday in the $50,000 Los Angeles Handicap in the top thoroughbred race of the day.

Second only to Round Table in the all-time money-winning list with earnings of $1,581,702, Kelso will use his start in the seven-furlong Los Angeles at Hollywood Park as a tuneup for the $100,000 Californian two weeks later.

Slated to go to the post against the Golden Gelding from Mrs. Richard duPont's Bohemia Stable is a strong field including Cyrano, Admiral's Voyage, Mr. Consistency and Mustard Plaster.

Kelso, making his first start since he was beaten by Mongo in the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel last November, will tote 130 pounds including his usual rider, Ismael (Milo) Valenzuela. He indicated his fitness with a sizzling 58-second workout for five furlongs Thursday.

Cyrano, assigned 124 pounds, and Admiral's Voyage, 121, also indicated their sharpness with half-mile works of 45.3-5 and 45.4-5, respectively.

Veteran Golfer Paces Memphis By One Stroke

MEMPHIS (AP)—Bob Duden hasn't won a golf tournament in 14 years on the pro circuit, but you wouldn't believe it after his last 36 holes.

The veteran from Portland, Ore., who uses his bent-shaft putter like a croquet mallet, has everything but a hole-in-one to his credit. Duden had a 68 Wednesday, including a double eagle, an eagle and a triple bogey. That was only a preview.

Duden fired a five-under-par 65 Thursday and took the first-round lead in the $50,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament. He had five birdies and 13 par holes.

Trailing the 43-year-old Duden by one stroke with 66s were pre-tournament favorite Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler, Gay Brewer and young Paul Bonde-son. Bruce Devlin, Mason Rudolph and Doug Sanders were bunched at 67.

Defending champion Tony Lema, his ailing back much improved, had a 68. Jack Nicklaus, unable to recover from a double bogey first hole, shot a 520-over-par 72.

In all, 33 golfers broke par over the 6,466-yard, par 34-36-70 Colonial Country Club course.

2. In Memoriam

Micheau

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Melvin Micheau.

Many a lonely heartache, often a silent tear.

But always a beautiful memory, or one we loved so dear.

You gentle face and patient smile, with sadness we recall.

You had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all.

You little thought when leaving home, you would return no more.

That you in death so soon would sleep, and leave us here to mourn.

We do not know what pain you bore, we did not see you die;

We only know you passed away, and could not say goodbye.

Quick and sudden came the call, your sudden death surprised us all.

We often sit and think of you, and speak of how you died.

We think of you in silence, dear, with grief that's deep and true.

There's always that sad longing, could we only speak to you.

Heavy are our hearts this day, memory brings you back our way.

To the times with us before, and the happy days of yore.

You live with us in memory still, not just today, but always well.

May God bless and keep you dear, Rest in Peace, his voice you'll hear.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Father, Sisters &amp; Brothers

Low Water: Private Boom

Boat Liveries Decline Sharply In Delta Waters

Marine Deputy Paul Corcoran reports a sharp reduction in the number of boats in Delta County liveries this year.

He has just completed a registration of boats for hire which revealed the reduction.

Corcoran, who handles marine policing for Sheriff Cully Johnson's Department, said that boat liveries, which numbered over 40 in the peak period of 1953-54, now number only 14. Certification of a 15th livery was withheld pending compliance with boat registration laws.

Corcoran registered 112 boats in the Delta liveries, compared with more than 400 in the peak period of a decade ago. He said that the reasons for the decline in livery boats include:

1. A decline in the water level which makes boating from beaches much more difficult.

2. Less livery boat use in fishing.

3. A great increase in privately owned boats. State figures report over 1,200 privately owned boats in Delta County registered with the Secretary of State.

"While most boats were in the liveries and under registry they could be policed and inspected easily," said Corcoran.

"but since the great increase in private boat use, the policing of small boat traffic is much more difficult. The Boating Act of 1959 puts into the hands of sheriff departments primarily policing and administration of the laws under this act.

"At the present time Delta County has no comprehensive boating safety program. There are state appropriations for such a program and we can't go on like this. Not only is there a local boat problem, but there is a great influx of boats from other areas which create problems that will soon be out of hand unless there is a control program.

"We need a program under which the safety rules set down by the State of Michigan can be enforced. The Boating Control Committee set up by the Michigan Waterways Commission to administer the Boating Act will match local funds on a basis of two for one in this work."

Corcoran devotes only part of his time to marine work. If he were able to devote full time to the work, it would probably require only one more part-time deputy to conduct a summer months program of boating safety, he said. It would concentrate activities in weekends, he said, because private boating gets a great spurt in weekends.

Under the program the boat owner must register his boat (any craft used with a motor on it), and keep the registry current with registry every three years (3); with next expiration date in 1965; and must provide his boat with safety equipment like life preservers, and (if enclosed) a fire extinguisher, and other safety aids, which vary by size of craft.

Only about one third of the boats registered in Delta County have been reregistered currently, the Secretary of State reports, and the registry fees finance enforcement of the act. A lack of policing and enforcement procedure has permitted this situation to develop," said Corcoran.

Johnson Aiming For Grand-Slam Election Victory

Selling Himself

Johnson repeatedly proclaims his desire to be "president of all the people." And, in six months, he has worked feverishly at selling himself—and with some apparent success.

A few months ago, street crowds that turned out for Johnson were modest in size and restrained in their applause. But recently when Johnson visited 13 states in 13 days, his receptions everywhere bordered on the triumphal.

Johnson rarely makes a speech without talking about civil rights and poverty. And in recent weeks, he has added medical care for the aged to his catalog of items he plugs with drumbeat persistence.

Persistence is the key word in Johnson's approach to pressing his programs. He summed it up like this when he was discussing the poverty program before a New York audience:

"We are going to strike the hammer of truth against the anvil of public opinion—again—and again—and again—until the ears of this nation are open and the conscience of America is awake."

Record Criticized

Unquestionably, domestic concerns have dominated Johnson's public utterances during the past six months. But problems abroad have multiplied, in Panama, Cuba, South Viet Nam, Laos.

Criticism of his record has centered on his conduct of foreign affairs. The allegation heard most often is that the President's interest in this area—and his knowledge of it—is limited and contributes to stagnant, unimaginative policy.

Johnson bristles at this, arguing that he has a strong background in foreign affairs and devotes a great proportion of his time to them.

At home and abroad, the great compromiser of the 1950s has emerged in six action-packed months as a man of unyielding force. The next six months will determine how well the voters like the new Lyndon Johnson.

Car Hits Ditch; Driver Injured

Edwin R. Buckland, 33, of Escanaba Rte. 1, suffered cuts and bruises in an accident in which his automobile ran off the roadway and into a ditch of the Danforth Road just off U. S. 2-41 at 9 p. m. Thursday, it is reported by Escanaba police.

Buckland suffered a severe laceration over the left eye and cuts on the left elbow. Police ticketed Buckland for violation of the basic speed law.

Warm Greeting Given President By Detroiters

DETROIT (AP)—President Johnson told a crowd of 25,000 at Metropolitan airport today "I don't want you to forget me later on in the fall."

The airport throng, many of them carrying banners of welcome, applauded loudly when Johnson said one of his favorite tunes was "Will you love me in November as you do in May?"

Johnson, en route to address the University of Michigan commencement at nearby Ann Arbor, said, "There is nothing that restores a President's soul more than a warm Detroit greeting."

Williams Applauded

Johnson was accompanied by Michigan's two democratic Senators, Patrick McNamara and Philip Hart, and 12 of the state's congressmen.

Next to Johnson, the crowd gave its biggest applause to former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Republican Gov. George Romney was an added starter on the program although he was not on the original list of those who were to greet Johnson at the airport.

Romney arrived in a private plane 40 minutes before Johnson's plane touched down at 9:16 a.m. The plane taxied into the area where Johnson's Air Force One was to stop and Secret Service men ordered the Romney plane moved to a spot a quarter of a mile away.

The governor stayed aboard the plane until shortly before Johnson arrived when he joined the welcoming group.

Band Music Praised

Romney and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh were the first to greet Johnson as he walked down the airplane ramp. Cavanagh led Johnson to a 24-man reception committee including industrialist Henry Ford II, State AFL-CIO President August (Gus) Scholle and other dignitaries and the president shook hands with each other. Johnson then strolled over to where the combined Detroit police and fire department bands and the Redford High School band were playing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

He stood beaming as the bands finished and then told them "I'm so happy to be here this morning and to hear this fine music in the great State of Michigan."

Suburban Nankin Township Democrats were chased away by Secret Service men when they sought to hold up their big sign reading, "Mr. President, You Can Pull Our Ears Any Time."

The sign bearers were told to stand behind a railing away from the presidential rostrum.

Retail Clerks Local 876 had about 25 sign bearers out, some of them reading "We Love Lady Bird too."

The President after a three-minute speech spent another six minutes shaking hands with many of the spectators in the front row of the big crowd while Secret Service men shook their heads in dismay.

son's speech to the 1964 graduating class at the University of Michigan:

"The challenge of the next half century is whether we have the wisdom to use that wealth to enrich and elevate our national life—and to advance the quality of American Civilization."

"For in your time we have the opportunity to move not only toward the rich society and the powerful society, but upward to the great society."

"I want to talk to you today about three places where we can begin to build the great society—in our cities, in our countryside and in our classrooms."

"Our society will never be great until our cities are great. Today the frontier of imagination and innovations is inside those cities not beyond their borders."

"The water we drink, the food we eat, the very air we breathe, are threatened with pollution. Our parks are overcrowded, and our seashore overburdened. Green fields and dense forests are disappearing."

"A few years ago we were concerned about the ugly American. Today we must act to prevent the ugly America."

"We must give every child a place to sit and a teacher to learn from Poverty must not be a bar to learning, and learning must offer an escape from poverty."

"We are going to assemble the best thought and broadest knowledge from all over the world to find those answers. I intend to establish working groups to prepare a series of conferences and meetings—on the cities, on natural beauty, on the quality of education, and on other emerging challenges."

RETURNING JUNE 26

ANN ARBOR (AP)—President Johnson's Michigan visit today is his fourth in the last 16 months, but his first since succeeding the late John F. Kennedy six months ago.

Today's visit is "strictly non-partisan," a Presidential aide said.

Johnson will return to the state June 26 for a political speech at a Democratic fundraising dinner in Detroit.

He stopped in Detroit last year—on Jan. 6, March 2 and Aug. 15—while he was still vice president.

The President did not appear in Michigan during the 1960 presidential election campaign.

Michigan's delegation to the Democratic national convention, led by former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, had opposed the selection of Johnson as Kennedy's running mate.

Johnson apparently managed to soothe Michigan Democrats in his visits last year.

OVER 85,000 ATTEND

ANN ARBOR (AP)—An enthusiastic graduation day crowd greeted President Johnson today as the nation's chief executive arrived for his University of Michigan commencement address.

Johnson came to the huge University of Michigan stadium from nearby Detroit Metropolitan Airport by helicopter.

Some 85,000 students, graduates, relatives and supporters were on hand as the President arrived.

Johnson came here after a brief reception at Detroit Metropolitan Airport where he introduced Michigan political figures including former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, now Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs.

President Johnson, on the six month anniversary of his taking office, arrived in warm, sunny May weather.

The President is the first chief executive to address a U of M commencement exercise.

The Presidential party moved quickly inside, where the bright hues of spring clothes created a panorama of color around the huge concrete saucer.

The 4,900 capped-and-gowned seniors began filing in early.

Because commencement was moved up a day to accommodate the President, professors not through final grading yet.

Big Ten pennants fluttered from flagpoles around the stadium rim and Old Glory waved atop a tall flagpole set in the green grass of the gridiron back of the graduates and facing the President.

There were an estimated 50,000 in the stadium at 9:30 a.m. Ann Arbor schools let out for the day and the University said 8,500 school children from outstate had made reservations.

In all, the university said it had issued 85,000 tickets.

Bright maize and blue streamers blocked out some 10,000 seats immediately behind the stage from which Johnson spoke at the north end of the football field.
